

FROM THE DESK OF KATY BYRTUS

Katy is a Creative Recruiter at M+P and a career coach in her spare time. She knows a thing or two about what gets you hired.

Networking In (and out of) Your Job Search

People in your network want to help, we've all been in the place of searching for work! Don't be afraid to reach out.

Job search can be isolating. It helps to have someone you know that is in the same boat. Make goals, meet-up, hold each other accountable!

Your relationships will help you go farther in your search and in your career. Ask for referrals, introductions, and support.

People want to hire people, not a resume. Show you're human and your personality in your materials and through your online presence.

Attend events! Don't forget about the power of IRL meet-ups.

